Introduction by Margaret Watson Rutledge

Margaret Watson Cooke (Mrs. Russell S.) was a lovely person, and her husband, Russell, was one of the funniest people we knew (such a dry wit). She was my great-aunt, my father's father's sister. My brother and I loved visiting them because Aunt Margaret didn't cook, so they always took us out to restaurants to eat—a real treat for us children<sup>1</sup>—and she always let us read our cousin Donald's old comic books. I never knew a warmer, more loving human being than Peg Cooke.

Sometime in the 1950s she began compiling genealogical data on her family by corresponding with distant relatives. Many of them replied. Her handwriting was not very good as she had arthritis in her hands, but she typed very well. Whenever she received additional information, she revised her compilations. This was the days before computers made insertion of new information easy, so she retyped her compilations often and accurately. It's amazing how few typos she made.

My parents had what I always thought were her final versions. Somehow I wound up with many of her papers, and they sat in a closet for more than 30 years. I finally started looking at them this spring, planning to scan them. To my horror I realized the copies had been made on thermal paper, and were becoming illegible. There were also earlier versions and some of the original correspondence, so I decided I'd better retype it before all her work was lost.

A copy prepared for the Springfield (IL) Chapter NSDAR Genealogical Records Chairman, Mrs. K. Burney Vancil, was the last version typed, as far as I know. Using that as the starting point, I typed it into Microsoft Word, then compared every other draft to the Word version. All those comparisons were a great way to catch the typos.

I also discovered:

- Changes that may be attributable to typographical errors or corrections of earlier erroneous information. Since there is no way of knowing which is correct, if I found a discrepancy in data (and they are few), I put both in like this: 1904 or 1905.
- Later versions completely left out children who died in infancy or before reaching maturity or, in some cases, died as unmarried young adults.
- Notations where someone was living when she prepared a version. I put them in.
- Sources of information were recorded erratically, but I tried to compile a complete list.
- Sometimes Margaret recorded notes in the margins, so I put them in if they were legible.

Where notations are made:

MWC=Margaret Watson Cooke

MWR=Margaret Watson Rutledge

Aunt Margaret once told me, "I can't rest until I know where everyone went." She and her correspondents tried to find them all.

---

<sup>1</sup> After Uncle Russell died she remodeled her kitchen. The next time we visited she proudly announced she was going to cook for us, much to our surprise. She proudly opened her freezer, which was full of Stouffer's frozen meals, and asked us each to choose what we wanted for dinner.

Margaret Watson Cooke's Key to Generations

(MWR—Early versions were compiled with the children under their parents. She probably changed format because it was too difficult indenting far enough right to accommodate 10 generations. )

We start with 1-1 because that is the first one we know. 2-1 is the son or daughter of (1-1).

3-1 children of 2-1, etc., with the parents number in () after the name.

For example:

7-60 MARGARET AGNESS WATSON (6-30)

The same order follows for each generation known.

1-1 Henry Brotherton

“first settler, Henry Brotherton, was from Manchester, Eng.; settled in Woodbridge ca 1700, tho he had a temporary sojourn in Monmouth Co., N.J.; moved to Rahway. had been an Episcopalian, then a FRIEND (Monnette Pts. 3-4 p. 798)

“The first of the name of this branch of the family in America was HENRY. Family tradition was that he was in debt 500 at the time he migrated to America. The ship was wrecked near Sandy Hook, and he walked barefoot and hatless to Rahway. There he learned the trade of a hatter after being indentured to (Daniel) Shotwell, learned the trad after marrying his daughter ANN. It is said Ann paid the debt in England after his death.” (Stevenson Family p. 123)

Moses bought land (timber) 12 miles from the Ohio River, according to "The History of Pike Co., Ill." Biog. Pub. Co. 1891, p. 735. No record of this purchase has been found in Hamilton Co., O.; many records were destroyed in two courthouse fires.

Family tradition was that Moses came to Ohio in 1809 but letters appear to refute this. Hannah's brothers Enoch & Levi Buckingham had come to Hamilton Co., Ohio earlier and Moses & Hannah must have come about 1804. Moses received a letter from his father-in-law Wm. Buckingham dated 10-7-1804 or 1809, (looks more like a 4 than a 9, owned by Lola Bonnell Cincinnati Ohio 1961) addressed to him "Living near the Big Sandy Creek." Another letter dated from a Wm. Patterson dated 9-26-1814 (after his death) addressed to "Butler Co., Fairfield twp., Hamilton Co., Ohio) One of MWC's compilations says "Moses's death may have been due to a flu epidemic in Ohio country about that time."

When Moses died Hannah took her children went to live in Hamilton Co., Montgomery as her brothers Enoch and Levi Buckingham lived in that county. Some of her children later lived in Clermont Co., Ohio, there in census 1820.

The following is a story that came down in Harriet Elona Bonell Ford's family: "Four of five Bonnell brothers were moving to Ohio. They were going by boat and a storm came up. Moses felt there was something wrong, bundled up, and when he got on deck found his cargo was slipping. Either the cargo took him off or the furious wind blew him off the boat and he was never seen again. When the storm was spent, the brothers looked around a bit, then went on, much against the wishes of his wife. The reason was that it was getting late in the summer before winter set in. Hannah was heart-broken, also furious, but didn't say much on the trip to where they were settling. When they arrived, they told her they had decided to build her cabin first and would see she was well cared for. She told them not to bother as she wasn't staying and took her five children and her wagons and set out through the weeds for the settlement near the Ohio where her brothers lived." Hattie Swaim said

Moses had invested his money in whisky, which was a practice of many who were going west. It was as good as money anywhere. So far only a tradition.

(Note from MWR—I have a plain walnut chest that I was always told held the whiskey barrels they brought to Ohio. It is beautiful in its simplicity.)

The above story was found in a copy of “The Bonnells in Ohio” in the genealogy room, library, Los Angeles, Calif.

In 1961 Moses will was found in Butler Co., & he lived in Liberty twp.; also an inventory of farm tools was found (3 pages) but no rec. of farm (Informant Leonard McGee, Hamilton, Ohio). The inventory included a note due from Wm. Patterson of Pa.

b. 7-22-1814 Locust Corner, O. (7-28 in one draft) (MWR—published obituary says b. 7-22)

d. 10-2-1896 Astoria, Ill.

At an early age moved with his family from Washington Co., Pa. and settled near Cincinnati.
first tried farming in Clermont Co., Ohio

He was a J.P. in Batavia.

1837 saddler and harness maker in Batavia, Ohio

1842 trustee of Batavia (Evert's History of Clermont Co., O p. 255)

1847 candidate for State Senator; lost by 300 votes (Everts; Hist. of Clermont Co., O p. 127)

About 11-1850 moved to Griggsville, Ill. and engaged in harness business. Later moved to farm near N. Salem by 1863 back in harness business in Griggsville.

“Henry was a man of sterling integrity and principle. His word was as good as his bond any time. (Near the end of his life he had gone on the bond of a neighbor, who forfeited. Henry's son Dr. Wm. W. paid off the note.) Henry and Amelia were prominent members of the Methodist Episcopal Church wherever they lived, he generally serving the church in some official capacity. They were the parents of eleven children—four sons and seven daughters. As if a family of 11 were not enough, they made a home for their orphaned niece, Missouri Almina Behymer. The compensation Henry and Amelia Bonnell received was in the consciousness of having given to the world a physician, two ministers (Methodist), three school teachers, a merchant and housewives.” written by son-in-law W.W.Watson.

After Henry's death Amelia, with the help of the older children, kept the family together until all were grown, when she lived with her daughters until her death.

mother AGNESS BEGG b. 1813 Scotland d. 1895 Barry, Ill. bur. Barry, Ill.

Margaret grew up in Griggsville Ill.; graduated from High School 1881 as a very good student; married and moved to Barry the same year. The center of her social life was the church—Barry Methodist Episcopal; they gave it material aid as well as spiritual aid to all ministers and their families. She followed in her sister Kate's footsteps and was Sunday School Superintendent for over 30 years without missing a Sunday. (MWR-original drafts say she scarcely missed a Sunday, which I think must be accurate as she and her husband took two extended trips to California.) Their home was a virtual "Open House" as a place was always set at the table for company. In the early days of Chautauqua many noted guests were entertained; theirs was a friendly home. She was a friendly and capable housewife and mother.

Wm. W. editor of Barry Adage; farmer (top buggy) insurance & real estate bus.; bank receiver

His version of the Buckingham fortune was that Margaret's brother, Joseph, sent him above data on Bonnell family, which he compiled and a Chicago friend—Harry Weber—had bound for him. He took no stock in ever getting anything from the original Buck. fortune in England and did not think it wise to contribute to any fund. (Rev. Jos. Bonnell had been asked to contribute and contact his immediate family.)

Harriet had also heard this version of the "Buckingham fortune" from her Aunt Sally Bonnell Swaim: "Way back when in English history one of the younger sons of the Duke of Buckingham decided he wanted to go to one of the colonies (Va. she understood). His father gave him some money and told him, in modern language, "to get lost." After he was gone some years, came war and pestilence to England, and the old Duke and his family (the men) were wiped out. The gov't sent word to the colony to send the son home to claim the fortune and title. When the emissary got there, he found Buckingham had gone to another colony. He went there only to find he had gone into the interior. He finally caught up with the wanderer, but travel being what it was then, by the time he had got back to Eng. the time limit had run out and the Buckingham palace and fortune had been turned over to the gov't." (An unbelievable story, but it has gone through many branches of our particular Bonnell family.)
